

Identity

Model identity

Identity

Chameleon - Identity

Model identity

The family of possible model identities. Determines the character of how information is represented, transformed, and remembered and which tasks can be solved meaningfully.

model identity, deep, multimodal, modular pretrained, autoencoding, stochastic, online learning, attention

Model characteristics suitable to express and reason about phenomenon.

The model behaves according to its nature rather than the data.

In target card, change who is the primary actor.

"What if I would choose an entirely different model class?"

The troupe stood ready. Each actor could take any role, but never escape their nature. The director distributed this evening's main roles. The play was about to begin.

