Model Inputs

Models condition on input to produce some output. That input can be of diverse character and quality. Choosing the right input modalities for the model can be both an active decision or preordained by data availability.

explanative variables, external drift, input–output relation, data quality, mutual information, data

Inputs form a coherent, trainable chain from cause to effect.

Inputs are contradictory, redundant, or confounded; garbage in, garbage out.

Chose two target cards and align vertically. Consider bottom one as input to top one.

"What information do your inputs carry about the output?"

The actors studied the life of the King in great detail. They put much of their efforts into analyzing the recipes for the bread he openly disliked.
