

A measure of radiance

Objective function

A measure of radiance

Volition - Cognition

Objective function

The act of declaring what counts. By reducing value to a scalar all things can be measured and judged. This is necessary yet also tyrannical. Illuminating everything in the same light means blindness in important aspects.

quality criteria for objective/loss/utility, scalarization, constraint vs objective, multi-objective, pareto front

Enables clear optimization, comparability.

Collapses value into a single axis.

Declare how much you regret placing target card.

"What values did I compress into one number and how did I do that?"

This light judges without hatred or mercy. It merely shines. All things compared just by their brightness, the world collapses into one measure.