

The stars have spoken

Automation Bias

The stars have spoken

Volition - Cognition

Automation Bias

Authority of interpretation is surrendered. The modeler refuses to stand behind the results of their own decisions. The model ceases to be an instrument; becomes an oracle. Responsibility and judgment are deferred to it.

delegation of authority/interpretation/responsibility/decisions, seeming objectivity, trust in models

- ▲ Enables trust in complex systems beyond individual cognition.
- ▼ Responsibility is displaced onto the model.
- ▶ Automatize the impact of target card.

"If this output is wrong, who will notice?"

The constellations were drawn so clearly, they could not be wrong. Decisions were made by looking upward, not outward. When the undertaking failed, the stars were blamed. They never seemed to care.